LOCATION
Situated on the western banks of Loch Lomond, Ardlui is a rural hamlet within Argyll and Bute located approximately 77 km (48 miles) north of Glasgow and 46 km (28.6 miles) north of Dumbarton via the A82. By rail, Ardlui Rail Station offers services to Oban in the west, Fort William in the north and to Glasgow Queen Street in the south. Located in the Loch Lomond and The Trossachs National Park, Ardlui offers a central location and excellent touring base.

The subject property is located on the western bank of The River Falloch which lies just north of Loch Lomond, offering a spectacular aspect across the River along with easy access to the Loch. Vehicular access to the property is obtained directly off the A82. A Location Plan is attached.

DESCRIPTION
Built in 1993, the subject property comprises a purpose built residential outdoor education and conference centre. Arranged over two floors, the building is of timber framed construction with external walls of blockwork which are partly rendered and partly stone clad. The roof is predominantly pitched and clad with slate.

Internally, the property offers flexible accommodation with a current capacity for around 80 persons over 29 single and shared rooms. Conference facilities are provided along with a large restaurant area offering panoramic views over Loch Lomond. A commercial kitchen and associated storage space are provided along with self-contained staff accommodation.
Externally, the property benefits from private car parking to the west. To the east, direct access is provided to the River and Loch Lomond beyond via a small jetty, allowing opportunity for a range of water pursuits. Surrounding grounds provide sufficient scope for outdoor activities within a site area which extends to 3.75 acres or thereby as highlighted on the attached plan.

SERVICES
The subject property does not benefit from connections to the mains gas, water or sewage systems. Private water is supplied directly from Loch Lomond. The property is served by a private septic tank and treatment system. Full maintenance, service and registration details can be made available on request.
